

Cookies For Layton!

For the PCN

Gray Simanton, an eight year old student of Whitewater School, decided she wanted to raise money for Layton Moore, a 3 year old girl from Glasgow who has leukemia.

She came up with the idea of selling cookies; About 30 dozens of different kinds of cookies later, and Gray was ready to make some money for Layton.

Gray needed to ask the Whitewater Student Council if she could sell the cookies during the Jamboree Basketball Tournament in Whitewater on November 22; And after their approval, she got to selling cookies, and sell, she did. Not a cookie left by day's end!

Gray commented that she would be happy if she made $15.00. Needless to say Gray was totally shocked and amazed when the finally tally was $500.00!!

Gray would like to share her appreciation with EVERYONE who bought a bag of cookies.

Gray Simanton sold $500 worth of cookies in an effort to raise funds for Layton Moore.
